1 Comments: I am one of the those people who believe the project is ill-conceived. When it started, Las Vegas was relatively small. Now just look at the growth.

Having a nuclear waste repository anywhere near a major metroplitan area is a mistake. Having one where there are so many unanswered questions is just too risky. Sure, few of the politicians in Washington care - they don't live here nor do their constituents.

Yucca Mountain project is a mistake. If continued, it will lead to a monumental disaster in the future.
